The most important thing to me is that the school year finishes before Memorial Day (assuming no emergency days).

I would like to have Parent/Teacher Conferences on two days in a row, instead of one day.

I love the way that we are doing PT conferences this year and I believe this is the way we should continue to do them!

Have Veterans day off

-Thank you for always asking for our input!

I think it would be great to start school after Labor day with the school year ending in June. :)

I love the idea of having the Tuesday off after conferences this year. I will go with the option of one day of conferences if we can do that again for next year.

I think the calendar should also somewhat align with the high school calendar for the families that depend on the high school kiddos to watch the littles.

I appreciate it when our calendar aligns with the high school calendar. It makes it easier on Streator families planning events, or for families where the younger children are watched by the older children.

Too early to tell if will have enough evening time for working parents?

Coordinating with STHS calendar would be appreciated.

Can the first day after winter break be a teacher institute day?

I like only having one long day for conferences, 6 is late enough for parents

Start of school: 15th and 16th for staff and 17th for kids

I love how parent teacher conferences were set up this year.
