Because—as principal, counselor, friend—you have inspired, guided, and understood us; because, through your personal magnanimity and professional excellence, you have become an unforgettable part of Central; and thus, because Central will always mean more to us for your having been identified with it; we inscribe with your name this record of our school life for the year 1957-58, as a lasting mark of our deep respect and affection for you. Those of us who have had the privilege of working under your direction, and those of us who have just met you through your frequent visits to Central, wish you much luck and success in your position. Although we miss you, we realize that the secondary schools of St. Joseph will greatly profit from your supervision.
To you also, Mr. Markley, do we express our gratitude and appreciation for your many years of service to the students of Central High School. In your previous office as Vice-Principal and in your present position, you have gained the respect and friendship of nearly everyone, students and faculty alike, with whom you have come in contact. Through your association with the student body, you have won a place in Central memories which has become even more strongly ingrained with the passing of this year. We know that as you continue as principal of Central our esteem for you will continue to grow. It is with this realization that we, the 1958 Walton Board and Staff, do dedicate to you, as we have done to your predecessor and former colleague, this record of our year at Central. May your coming years as principal hold for you as much pleasure as this, your first, has given us all.
Foreword

It has been twenty-five years since the first class graduated from our present Central High School building. In the intervening years many changes have been wrought as new demands have been made upon our school.

As American education is being re-evaluated, Central's program is continuing to give graduates the background necessary for future work and study. But, beneath the changes which have come about in buildings and schedules, the basic aims and traditions of Central High School have remained. Through the years the torch of knowledge on Central's seal has represented permanence and progress, bound together as the foundation of education. In the years to come it will continue to burn brightly for the students who are to follow.

Now, however, we turn our thoughts to those who have gone before us. On this twenty-fifth anniversary of our residency in the present Central High, we look at our school—past and present.

Then

Central High, dear Central High,
Our hearts shall ne'er forget,
The golden haze of student days,
Is round about us yet.
Our love for you so dear and true,
Through years shall never die,
There's hope, there's strife,
There's joy, there's life,
There's all in Central High.
Now

To you, Central High School, to you we would raise,
In true adoration our voices in praise.
To you in whose service true friendship we find,
Where friends are so constant and hearts are so kind;
Where friends are so constant and hearts are so kind.
To lead us in service, to guide us always;
We pledge our devotion thru our High School days.
And may we endeavor in all that we do,
To praise our dear High School and ever be true;
To praise our dear High School and ever be true.
Superintendent

From teacher to Superintendent of Schools, George Blackwell has served our educational system in many capacities. At Central High School, he served as assistant coach and taught social studies, during which time he was instrumental in organizing the Forum Club. He later served here as Vice-Principal.

After appointment as Principal of Roosevelt Junior High, he advanced to the school board offices, serving first as Business Manager and in his present position as Superintendent of Schools. He is assisted in his duties by the St. Joseph Board of Education.

Board of Education

They take care of our school system. These seven prominent members of the St. Joseph Board of Education help the young people of our community prepare themselves to become future citizens and leaders. It is their duty to see that the St. Joseph public schools are run with utmost efficiency and for greatest benefit to the students. They are constantly working toward better schools and increased opportunities for learning.
Mr. George Markley at Work

PRINCIPAL

"May I have your attention, please," sounds familiarly over the public address system as Central's principal, George Markley, goes about his duties. During his first year in this office, Mr. Markley has shown his ability to organize and administer school policies and to supervise its activities. As Principal, he must co-ordinate both instructional and extra-curricular activities, work with the faculty, and maintain a constant search for better methods, materials, and ideas to meet the needs of the students. This he has done and done well.

What a wonderful world we live in! And how much more wonderful will be the future!

What a treat you young people are to experience as the years pass by. The advance guard of the golden age of science is upon us, with all its many new wonders which will unfold like magic before your very eyes.

What an opportunity you have to become an integral part of that progress; to share in its glory; to reap of its harvest; to revel in its achievement!

Young people! Lose not your opportunities! Apply yourselves vigorously to the tasks of the future. Use generously your native intelligence; exert yourselves to the utmost, so that you can honestly say at a far distant date—"I contributed."

Signed: George L. Markley
A man of many tasks and talents—that is Central's Vice-Principal, Mr. Wayne Stegman. Although he has been a member of the faculty for five years, he has held this position for only one year. As Vice-Principal, Mr. Stegman is both disciplinarian and advisor, serving as comforter and corrector to the 600 boys at Central. This is a job which requires seemingly endless patience, good judgment, and a deep sense of perspective. However, beneath that familiar blond crewcut lies a capable and efficient mind equal to the most demanding task. In addition to his administrative and advisory duties, Mr. Stegman manages the school budget, oversees the athletic program, and teaches bookkeeping and junior business.

"What can I do for you?" These are the words which have greeted many Central girls as they enter the office of Mrs. Dorothy Graham. As Dean of Girls, Y-Teen Co-ordinator, and friend to any student who wants friendship, Mrs. Graham is an integral part of Central High School. Her sympathetic attitude and fine sense of humor make it easy for her to win the confidence of those with whom she works. Although many girls are sent to her office for disciplinary reasons, many more go there to talk over a problem or just to visit.

Besides her many responsibilities as Dean of Women and as a teaching member of the Central faculty, Mrs. Graham is sponsor of the Student Council and supervises its many projects and activities.
"Central High School, student speaking!" These words are spoken into Central's telephones a hundred times daily by members of the office staff. The staff is composed of 42 students, seven working each period of the day. They take care of the many duties, details, and "odd jobs" which keep the office operating smoothly and efficiently.

Heading the office staff are Mrs. Ilene Simmons, registrar, and Mrs. Camille Walton, bookkeeper. It is Mrs. Simmons' job to keep all student records, handle school correspondence, and see to other office functions, while Mrs. Walton handles the school finances and faculty records. However, both are often called upon to serve "above and beyond the call of duty" as counselor, nurse, sympathizer, and friend.

Office Staff

Scholastic

What is Central? In this day of hot-rod cars and sock-hops, of club meetings and cheerleading, students often tend to forget the real purpose of school. However, Central has remained a center of learning as well as a source of enjoyment. From the Tower Club of "Old Central," to the National Honor Society of "New Central," a tradition of superior instruction and interest in high scholarship has been maintained.
throughout the years.

Central offers a wide variety of courses in order to satisfy students with widely varied interests. However, all students are required to take several subjects which will be valuable to every individual. At the end of four years, a Central graduate has had ample opportunity to acquire a sound basic education.

These seniors have reached the height of success in accomplishing this basic purpose of high school. Their ranking has been determined by grades in all subjects for a period of seven semesters.

Besides showing outstanding scholastic ability, these students have also been, for the most part, extremely active in extracurricular school affairs. Many were admitted to the National Honor Society and have served actively on Student Council, in the music department, in clubs, and in athletics.
Scholarship, character, leadership, service—the four qualities of a National Honor student. To be admitted to the society, a student must rank in the upper one-fourth of his class, must meet specific requirements in the above categories, and must be approved by a faculty committee. This year, thirty-eight juniors and seniors were admitted.

Sponsored by Miss Freda Neal, the Society maintains the Guidance Library and offers tutoring service to anyone desiring it.
The elite of the fourth estate! These journalism students have been nationally recognized for their outstanding work on the school paper by being admitted to the Quill and Scroll. Candidates for membership in this honorary society must apply to the executive secretary of the organization, after which they are admitted if they rank in the upper third of their class and receive the recommendation of the faculty advisor.

Activities

The activities—social, scholastic, and service—which are enjoyed by Central students are many and varied. Each is important, however, in providing a well-rounded school year and in developing well-rounded individuals.

Twenty-five years ago, Central had her clubs, sports, and dances, and today is no different. Interested students can participate in anything from practice homemaking to intramural sports, from discussions on foreign policy to student government. Under supervision, they can collect insects, study the workings of a camera, or learn to be a teacher. This kind of participation in activities builds poignant memories, present enjoyment, and future skills, all of which leads to fuller and richer adulthood.
"To lead us in service, to guide us always, we pledge our devotion through our high school days ..." As these familiar words from the song "Fidelity" are heard, four new officers assume their responsibilities as the heads of Central's student body. With the symbols of their office—the gavel, file, minutes, and ledger—they will strive to maintain the high standards of good government handed down to them by previous officers of Central High School.
The president’s first call to order, meetings and homeroom reports, Homecoming, Friendly Week, Color Day, the All-School Dance, Campaigns in the spring—this is a year of Student Council activities. Planned to serve as a link between student and faculty members, the Student Council gives Centralites the chance to voice their own ideas and opinions, and to see action taken on these ideas and opinions by their own student representatives.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Dorothy Graham, the fifty council members, with the cabinet members and officers, are responsible for running the student supply counter, conducting the book exchange each spring, keeping the halls and campus clean, as well as carrying out the many other projects enjoyed during the year by the student body. The Council also sponsors the noon hour dance hall which has become one of the most profitable, as well as the most enjoyable features of our student government. Thanks to the dance hall, it was unnecessary for the Council to hold an additional money raising project. In addition to its services to the school, the Student Council undertakes some projects for its own enjoyment. Each year a special banquet and a picnic are held for all members. These events combine business with pleasure and take the place of the regular school-hour meeting.

To qualify for Student Council membership, a candidate must have a grade average of at least an M, must attend a brief, general course on the Council constitution, and must, above all, possess qualities of leadership, co-operation, and service-mindedness.

Forum Club

What's in the news? Whatever it is, you can be sure Forum Club will know about it. One of the most popular clubs at Central, the Forum is under the direction of Miss Ruth Spangenberg and Mr. Donald Hickman. Composed of juniors and seniors, it meets bi-monthly to hear informed speakers and to discuss current issues. To be eligible for membership, a student must pass a general U. S. History test, have an "S" average in social studies, and be recommended by a social science teacher.

"Hi ho, come to the fair"—the Central High School Science Fair, that is. A major project of the Science Club, the fair is an activity in which nearly all students at Central participate. Sponsored by Mr. Carl Perry, the Science Club has grown from an original twenty members in 1948 to one of the largest clubs at Central, taking membership from all four grade levels. In this way, students are encouraged to develop their scientific skills and, in many cases, to make science a career.

Science Club

These are the people who make the yearbook possible! Each year, the Wakanian Board and Staff compile and create a book which summarizes the complete activities of the school and the students, from registration in September to graduation in May. The Board plans and directs the year’s work, doing a liberal amount themselves. Staff members provide the manpower, taking orders, distributing books, and doing many other prosaic but vitally necessary tasks.

"You, too, can learn to draw"—that's what the ads say! Brush and Pencil Club was formed, however, for those high school students who are already proficient in art. Under the supervision of Central’s new art instructor, Mrs. Rolande Pinkerton, members provide displays for Central’s halls, sponsor an annual art exhibit, and hold banquets each semester. In order to become more proficient in the artistic field, they meet bi-monthly to discuss techniques and to hear guest speakers.
Copy, layouts, photographs, art work—all this and much more goes into the making up of every Wakitan. Mrs. Elaine Guenther and Mr. Lewis Simmons, Wakitan advisors, work with the board members to choose a theme and to begin work as soon as school begins. Supervisor of all Wakitan activities is the job of the editor-in-chief, who is responsible for the entire book. Specifically, however, there are special literary and lay-out editors, copy, art, and lay-out editors, individual class and index editors, and two business managers, who plan the budget and manage all finances.

Much work was also done by the two junior members, who will assume important positions on the board next year. Since book costs had risen, the board sponsored two money-raising projects to avoid increasing prices. The total result of all this work is the 1958 Wakitan, which is distributed in May.
Deadline! Stories frantically being written and rewritten! People scurrying in and out of 204 office! Pages being set up and torn down! Chaos seems to be the order of the day. But, as the time grows shorter, order begins to appear and, as always, the deadline is met. The paper is sent off to the printer and comes back for proofreading. Soon the final copy is completed and distributed, and the routine begins all over again.

The Outlook Staff consists of persons who spend one semester learning the fundamentals of journalism and a second one putting out the bi-monthly paper. Under the supervision of Mr. Ozenberger, journalism teacher and Outlook sponsor, the staff members learn details of layout, reporting, managing, and editing.
Auctions, dances, assemblies—these fun-raising projects have been turned into fund-raising projects by the public service committee. Sponsored by Miss Lois McClanahan, the committee is composed of home room representatives and an appointed board. It raises money for charitable organizations and furnishes workers for them.

"That's four cents, please." Taking fines is just one of the tasks of the library staff, supervised by Miss Lois McClanahan, librarian, it takes care of Central's 7,500 books. The staff issues books to students, repairs torn volumes, and keeps the shelves in order.

Library Staff
"Fire drill—everybody out!" is the cry heard every month by Central students. To make these drills run smoothly, fire chiefs stand outside each school entrance and check the building to see that it has been completely evacuated. When the "all clear" signal is given, students can return to class. The fire chiefs are under the direction of Mr. Ralph Wilkinson.

"To do my duty to God and my country..." describes in part the ideals of the Senior Girl Scouts. Aided by Mrs. Lois Walters, Troop 202 of Central has established a program of development and community service. Members perform services by being active in the Red Cross and Civil Defense, and by leading intermediate Girl Scout and Brownie troops.
"Experience is the best teacher"—even for future teachers. That is the reason for the organization called FTA. Formed in 1955, this club is open to any student at Central interested in the teaching profession. Members are encouraged to develop qualities essential to teachers and to understand the various problems involved in that field. Under the direction of Miss Mary Hash, the FTA provides members with information concerning teaching and offers specific experiences related to the subjects.

Can you whip up a layer cake or redecorate a living room? If you can, chances are you’re a member of the Central Homemakers Club. Known as FHA until this year, the club has many interests in home and community projects. Club members, under the guidance of Mrs. Frances Lemmon, work both individually and as a group to further their capabilities in homemaking and related endeavors.
Y-Teen Presidents

"That we may grow as simply as common blades of grass" is just one of the ideals of the Y-Teens. Under the auspices of the YWCA, the sixteen clubs at Central participate in a city-wide program of service and activity.

Adopting needy families, taking part in the Y-Teen Style Show, participating in Y-Teen Work Day, donating to World Fellowship, and working as volunteers for charitable organizations, the Y-Teens have shown the importance of service to God and to others.

Hi-Y Presidents

To attain high standards of Christian living—is the ideal of Hi-Y. From individual club meetings to sessions of the Hi-Y Model Legislature, these boys learn, work, and play the YMCA way.

The Hi-Y's of Central, like the Y-Teens, hold money-raising affairs, adopt needy families, and offer their service whenever needed. At meetings they discuss problems and listen to guest speakers, in an attempt to become better informed, more-rounded members of the world in which they live.

Stage Crew

"Tote that bar; lift that pail; hang by your heels from the catwalk rail." The stage crew manipulates lighting and sound systems, builds sets, and keeps the Central stage running smoothly. However, they always have time to play tricks during pep assemblies or to develop their aerial abilities high above the stage. Superseded by Mr. Cecil Carroll, they also assist at evening programs such as Audubon lectures and Civic Music concerts.

Visual education—the key to modern teaching! In the classroom, movies are becoming more and more widely used by teachers to relate words of the textbook to practical understanding. The motion picture operators make possible the use of this valued technique. Directed by Mr. George Athens, the group provides operators to run projectors, record players, and recording machines, and to record all materials used.

Motion Picture Operators

Mr. Henry Chatfield, Mr. Lloyd Ragland, and Mr. Thomas Waller.

Look sharply! Central is a well-groomed school. For her good appearance we must thank the custodians who keep Central clean and in good repair for the nine months of the year when over a thousand students and teachers occupy her halls and classrooms. In the spring Mr. Chatfield and his staff contend with mud tracked through hallways, and in the winter they shovel snow and keep the building at a comfortable temperature.

"Get out in that kitchen and rattle those pots and pans..." Bill Haley must have been thinking about Central's cafeteria staff when he wrote that song, because, in an attempt to fill 1300 ravenous stomachs daily, that is exactly what they do. The staff also serves the food during the three lunch periods and prepares special meals for school affairs, such as the annual National Honor Society and Student Council banquets.

Music

It is said that music is the universal language. If so, it must be true that music is able to span time as well as oceans and continents. Music has always played a major role at both old and new Central. Today over half of all the students enrolled are connected with one phase or another of the music department.

In room 111 we hear the mixed choir, glee club, freshmen choir and concert choir as they... rehearse with Mr. Gench and Mr. Myers or for contest at Columbia. Perhaps one of the groups has been asked to appear for the luncheon or banquet of a civic organization. In the band room every third period we hear members practice their marches and concert numbers with Mr. Allan Bing.

Yes, music, without which our lives would be so much emptier, is everywhere.
Concert Choir

Performance! The Concert Choir values its practice sessions, but members also enjoy presenting their abilities to the public. Whether it be for civic organizations such as the Rotary Club or La Sertoma, for conventions, for assemblies, or for music festivals—the choir performs with a zest and pride that matches the excellence of their accomplishment.

Inner Choir

The repertoire of this group ranges from light and fanciful selections to complex presentations, prepared by Mr. Marvin Grench, Jr., director of vocal music.

Choir members develop the ability to sing and gain a wide knowledge of choral literature and basic technicalities of music. These 120 students represent the best in vocal ability at Central.

Daily Session of Choir
Mr. Gench's newest group! Central has an addition to the music department this year in the junior mixed choir. Composed of one hundred sophomore and junior students, this choir not only serves as a feeder for the concert choir but also is becoming famous in its own right. It has made several appearances, one of which was participating in the annual school Christmas program. In one year, the mixed choir has become an integral part of the music program.
Sounds of "Ya-ha-ha" and "You'll Never Walk Alone" echo from Room 111 during fifth period each day as Central's Glee Club goes through its paces. Composed of approximately one hundred sophomore and junior girls, the Glee Club learns singing technique and prepares for admittance to more advanced vocal units: the Mixed Choir and Concert Choir. Like the choirs, the girls give performances for various civic organizations and school groups. The Glee Club is also directed by Mr. Marvin Gench, Jr.

Pep Band

Parades, football and basketball games, weekly assemblies, pep rallies—these are just a few of the activities in which Central’s Concert Band plays an important part. Under the direction of Mr. Allan Bing, the band members learn fancy drills, formations, and other intricate steps, which they can be seen practicing during third period in all kinds of weather. This year, the band has been kept busy performing for the R. O. T. C. Inspection, the Football Queen Coronation, the Baccalaureate and Commencement services, and the two special student assemblies which it presents each year. The band also performed at the annual R. O. T. C. Revue.

Assistant Conductor

Much thanks is due to the Pep Band for their role in student activities. Composed of 12 students and directed by president, Bob Berger, this group has given much time and energy to maintaining school spirit at football games and pep assemblies.

Serving as the frosting on the cake were Central's high-stepping majorettes, led by co-head majorettes, Shirley Short and Pat Travis. Their twirling batons and intricate maneuvers have led the band through many successful exhibitions.

Athletics

On the football field and in the gymnasium, at the baseball diamond and on the track—Central athletes have made the school proud this year. We have played many games and won many championships. Our team members have won more honors than any other team in the city. But, more important, we have learned the qualities of good sportsmanship which have always been a part of Central, old and new.
To be modest in victory and proud in defeat—that is the motto of the blue and white. Through the years leaders of Central have tried to maintain high standards of team play. They have taught Central sportsmen and sportswomen that the important thing is not whether you win or lose, but "how you play the game."

Thus, the high school athletic program has been a source of education for Central students as well as a source of pride.

"... God has called on a remarkable guy to join his team."

"Let's give one big fight!—Fight!" The Central rooting section cheers wildly through a series of field goals, first downs, and touchdowns as the Indians come out ahead once more. The noise increases as the final point is scored.

Who wouldn't yell for as fine a team as our 1957 Tribe? Captained by Steve Beaver, Gary Carter, and Jack Stuber, the team got off to a fine start by winning the Jamboree, with thirty-five points. With time out for a loss to Atchison, Central proceeded to win six of its first seven games. Thanks to this almost routine good playing, Central again won the city championship.

Despite two final losses, the tribe finished with a commendable 6-3 record and gained second place in the Pony Express Conference. In addition to this, the team walked off with almost every statistical honor in rushing, passing, total offense, defense per game, and in individual scoring honors.

In addition, many of Central's players were chosen to the All-City Team. Elected to the first team were Jerry Albin, Steve Beaver, Don Briscoe, Kurt Brown, and Jack Stuber. Don Blakley, Gary Carter, Bob Dyson, and Dean White were appointed to the second team. On the Pony Express All-Conference Team, Central placed Don Briscoe, Kurt Brown, Gary Carter, and Jack Stuber. On the All-District team were Jack Stuber and Kurt Brown. In addition, Jack Stuber was honored by being placed on the All-State Team.

Recognition should also be given to Central's reserve team, who wound up with an 8-0 record. Through the entire season the reserves showed good team effort and promise just as fine a lineup for the coming year.

CENTRAL RETAINS C. B. TITLE AS LAFAYETTE FALLS; CENTRAL BEATS HORNETS IN N. K. C. FINALS; CENTRAL "SWAMPS" CHRISMAN; CENTRAL WINS REGIONALS, ADVANCES TO STATE; CENTRAL TAKES SECOND IN STATE TOURNEY.

This was truly a banner year for the Central basketball team! Carrying through without a letdown, the team finished with a brilliant record. Of its three losses, two were deemed upsets and the third was a thrilling bid for the state championship.

Central won first place in nearly every tournament, taking trophies in the C. B. tournament, North Kansas City Tournament, City League, Pony Express Conference, and Regional Tournament. The Indians gained state-wide fame by taking second place in the tournament at St. Louis.

Special recognition was given to many individual players. The entire starting team—Don Blakley, Kurt Brown, Gary Carter, Jack Stubber, and Don Briscoe—gained places on the All-City and P. E. C. All-Star teams. Don Blakley was named to the State Tournament All-Stars as well as to the All-State team.

The reserves had a lot to live up to but did well, finishing with a 8-7 record.

"Track is the basic sport," says Coach Gibson. About 200 boys participated during the track season, taking part in the 220-yard dash, the half-mile run, and the mile relay, the broad jump and high jump, and in the shot put and discus throw.

The Central team took part in many meets during the season, winning third place in the Tarkio Meet and second place in the Pony Express Conference.

In addition to team honors, several track members were awarded places on the State Track Team: Gary Carter, high jump; Bob Dyson and Chuck Hume, 880-yard run; and Jon Wyant, low hurdles. Dyson placed third and Hume placed fourth in the State Meet.

As in other sports, each year the team nominates candidates for the title of City Track Queen. Not only must nominees compete against each other, but also against candidates from all the other city high schools as well. In 1957, one of Central's candidates, Miss Jenny Clark, was awarded the title and reigned as queen at the city track meet.

Another popular sport at Central is baseball. Our 1957 baseball season was opened with a 21 to 3 victory over Park Hill, paving the way for an eventual five wins out of eight games played. Outstanding during the year was catcher, Dean White, who was voted the most valuable Indian player.

They're the steam behind the team! In addition to teaching various academic subjects, Central's coaches devote much school and after-school time to our athletic teams. They supervise daily practices and are present whenever a game is played, giving instructions and advice to the players, and just lending moral support. It is they who are largely responsible for our fine record this year, from freshman to varsity play.

Boys' "C" Club

They're the team! Members of Central's "C" Club are boys who hold one or more "C" awards in a major sport. Many of these athletes also have received medals, emblems, and other honor recognition. They hold a banquet each year to celebrate their many victories. This banquet often is the last opportunity for the group to be together. Yet, the pride of having been a member of the "C" Club does not end with the banquet or with graduation.

With a puzzled look, Coach Gibson worries about the sluggish first half of play in the Sedalia-Central game. Central eventually went on to win.

Judy Reed is shown rolling the ball down the alley. In the background are some of the other members of the Little Rascals Bowling Team.

Jim Coy congratulates Don Briscoe on his taking first place in the 1957 City Track Meet. Coy came in second.

The opening tip-off of the State Championship game in St. Louis has Kurt Brown of Central reaching for possession of the ball.

Don Blakley, at the center of the picture, holds the second place trophy which Central won at the State tournament in St. Louis.
Pep Squad

"We're the girls of Central High. Central High . . ." When this song is heard, everyone knows that Central's pep squad is present and cheering. These 140 girls lend their pep, enthusiasm, and lung power in support of the team. In addition to wearing the blue and white at all city games in which Central plays, the pep squad takes one out-of-town trip per season.

Cheerleaders

There's a reason to buy; there's a reason to sell . . . . and here's the reason why the students all yell—the cheerleaders! They lead the school in enthusiastic support of each Central team.

Headed by Jenny Clark, who is pictured at right, the cheerleaders spend much outside time perfecting their motions and working out new yells. Encouraging pep, enthusiasm, and good sportsmanship, they present weekly pep assemblies. Assisted by Mr. Wilkinson, they also sponsor an annual clinic for cheerleaders in this area.

BOARD

From soccer to whistle—the Girls' Athletic Association provides many types of sports and enables every girl at Central to participate and to develop ideals of sportsmanship. Throughout the year the girls participate in soccer, basketball, volleyball, swimming, archery, bowling, and many other sports. They learn individual and team play through intramural tournaments. Even though they play mostly for pleasure, members may receive a "C" letter, "C" pin, and a trophy upon the accumulation of sufficient points.

Besides providing sports activities, G. A. A. sponsors a welcoming tea for all new girls entering Central, holds a banquet for the Board members and their assistants, publishes the annual Student Directory and holds a play-day to which athletic clubs from other schools are invited. It also sponsors the basketball Queen Coronation and concessions at the Regional Basketball Tournament.

This year, as a special project, G. A. A. presented shades for the west windows of the gymnasium to the physical education department.

The G. A. A. and Central greatly appreciate the efficient efforts and personal interest of the sponsor, Mrs. Gladys Baker. Without her able guidance, the organization could not have attained the proportions that it has.

TROPHY GIRLS

A G. A. A. Trophy—the highest goal an athlete high school girl can attain. After winning a "C" letter and "C" pin, a few very ambitious girls may go on to receive this award. This is done through almost endless participation in intra-mural sports, refereeing and scorekeeping, and other activities. A trophy girl may be truly proud of her achievement.

A "C" Pin—the mark of outstanding effort and achievement in the field of sports. After much running, batting, jumping, and throwing, a girl may accumulate 2800 points, the number required to be granted a "C" pin. Although this sounds like a great amount of work, the girls find that G. A. A. is as much fun as it is good for them.

"C" PIN GIRLS

OLD "C" GIRLS

It's old stuff to them! The old "C" girls are those G. A. A. members who have already received their blue chenille "C" letters. Many of these girls have gone on this year to win "C" pins and trophies. It is because of their amazingly rapid accumulation of points that the point requirements had to be raised this year. These girls are certainly active!

A "C" letter—at last! This is the first award received by a G. A. A. girl and is often looked forward to with much impatience. To receive a letter, a girl must accumulate 1800 points, a feat which can be accomplished by the end of the sophomore year, although this is rather difficult. The new "C" girls are those which have just received letters this year.

NEW "C" GIRLS

Reserve Officer's Training Corps

The Reserve Officers' Training Corps—an old and valued part of Central's program. Since 1919, cadets have learned personal and group hygiene, map reading, and military tactics under the direction of a regular Army instructor. They leave with a knowledge of gun safety, marksmanship, military courtesy, discipline, and first aid.

The Central Battalion is divided into four rifle companies, each meeting one period daily. Instruction and drill are carried on largely by cadet officers who are themselves learning to teach. Each year the battalion is evaluated at a federal inspection, in which Central has received an honor school rating for three consecutive years.
The R. O. T. C. rifle team has made an outstanding record this year. Undefeated in city competition over the past three years, it took sixth place in the Columbia meet and ranked fifth in the national Hearst Trophy meet.

In military drill Central’s Blue Lancers, formerly the Honor Guard, represent the school with precise maneuvers and a sparkling Queen Anne manual of arms. They are directed by Cadet Captain Terry Boyer. Captain Boyer also commands the Girls’ Drill Team, which performs at football games and parades.

Aside from providing a military education to cadets and entertainment to spectators, the R. O. T. C. renders much service in the person of the MP’s.

Memories

As the song goes, "Memories Are Made of This." The year is over, and Central of 1958 will never be the same. Many of her students have gone, never to return. Never again will they walk her halls, or sit in her classrooms, or cheer her teams to victory.

The year is over. Only the memories remain—memories of the sights and sounds of Central, the spirit of her, the feel of being a Centralite. Although we can never relive what has passed, in our thoughts we will return many times to the halls we knew and loved. And perhaps, when twenty-five more years have gone by, we will think back and realize that the years spent here were four of the best years of our lives.

Thus, our Central—the Central of the present—is soon to become the Central of the past. But the memory of her will remain with us forever.
United Fund Drive, "Sweat Sox Swing"

Because the dance was held in the gym, no shoes were allowed in order to protect the floor of the gym from being marked up. It was from this idea of no shoes that the name, Sweat Sox Swing, was derived. Many stocking, shoeless feet were seen, as shoes were left in lockers.

Juniors, Bobette Williams and Don Mey, are shown above performing one of the difficult steps which helped them win the dance contest. As first prize, Bobette and Don were given a pair of tiny red socks and a pair of large white sweat socks. Approximately 15 couples took part in the dance contest.

Lana Kuehn is shown holding one of the cakes which were auctioned off at the Sweat Sox Swing. Many gaily decorated cakes, such as the one Lana has above, were contributed in order to help raise money for the United Fun Drive. Serving as the auctioneer was Dick Kerns.

As is shown by the above picture, many students eagerly awaiting the opportunity to buy cakes, cookies, cupcakes, and candy, received the services of those who were just as eager to serve. It was the wonderful cooperation of all which helped make the Sweat Sox Swing the big success it was.
The Art Department, under the direction of Mrs. Pickett, made figures of Santa with his sleigh and reindeer to add to the Christmas decorations in the front hall this year. Rudolph with his red nose brightly led the way. The Christmas tree and other decorations made a festive place to gather for carol singing.

The "stained glass windows" for the front hall are a lovely part of the Christmas scene. The windows depict the adoration of the Christ Child. These windows have been used for many years, and they always add meaning to the Christmas observance.

Here are shown a number of carolers near the Christmas tree. For a week students gather to sing in the morning before school and a different group leads the singing each day.

At the Christmas Dance, Santa Claus, who is really Mr. Ted Evans, principal of Pershing School, presents Mrs. Dorothy Graham with a whistle because "no one ever whistles at me anymore."

The Edsels, who are Harvey Williams, Al Porter, and Don May, entertained at the Christmas Dance.

The dance was held in the nicely decorated gym and was enjoyed by all who attended.

These twenty-six students, representing all of the classes at Central, participated in the 1958 All-School Play, "Onions in the Stew." This play, written by the late Betty McDonald, is a story about the trials and joys of her family, including two teen-age daughters, when they move to Vashon Island in Puget Sound.

"They're normal children, with no inhibitions." This proved to be quite true, as Dotty and Joey proceeded to prove.

"Cleopatra Borneo!" Thus does Anne's "city" boy friend greet her little sister, Joan, when he comes to spend a week-end at the Island with the McDonalds.

"Let's go for a walk!" Roger finds this would be the ideal way to entertain the attractive, red-headed niece of the beautiful widow Leslie Arnold.

"Mom, I'm having a slumber party!" Betty and Don weren't exactly thrilled about the prospects of a teen-age slumber party.
Judy Reid, Linda Dillard, Mavis VanFossen, Sandy Fry, and Connie VanFossen were hard at work on the tree used as decoration at the All-School Dance.

The tree was given the finishing touches. The dance was held March 21st in the Central Gym.

Here more decorations were being put up for the dance. Jon Wyant and Gary Carter are among the workers.

Anita Jackson, chairman of the decorations committee worked hard attaching stars to carry out the theme, "Stairway to the Stars."

Nancy Ward did a pantomime to entertain the dancers during intermission. Roger Kramer also entertained.

Gary Carter and Rita Mallory are congratulated by Dwight Pope on being elected King and Queen.
Senior Variety Show "Show Boat"

Nancy Hedlund, Gayle Hart, Elaine Fellman, Carolyn Beam, and Donna Kerns did the "Hawaiian War Chant" but they really didn't mean it.

"Why Do I Love You?" A quartet composed of Dick Kerns, Don Packwood, Mike Katcher, and Miles Stroud quired tunefully.

"Don't spit on the floor! Use the cuspidor!" echoed Madame La Frou Frou (Shirley Dale) and her alluring partner Marilyn and her violin (Marilyn Garow).

"And I told her..." related Cap'n Andy (David Asbury) to Saltie (Dan Mannscheek) as he told him about the one that got away.

"We Hate Men!" These three old girls, Judy Hawkins, Gayle Lott, and Mary Jane Thompson disapprovingly viewed the male selection on the Cotton Blossom.

"Oo la la!" The spirit of Parisian night life came alive on Central's stage as Pat Dunavant, Linda Dougherty, Claire Taylor, Ruth Jennings, Connie Boyd, Joyce Fuller, Pat Bowen, and Judy Bermond demonstrated the Can-Can.

"Looks like there's agoin' a be a sing shortly." The entire Showboat cast joined hands in the finale to sing "Ole Man River."
The football queen coronation assembly is one of our most beautiful assemblies. Here, Queen Donna Gibson and her court listen as Roger Angsten plays his trumpet.

Mr. William Campbell, noted lecturer, showed slides of Indo-China and explained them in an interesting and timely discussion of one of the lesser-known places in the world today.

The Culver-Stockton College Choir presented a varied program including a brief section from "The Student Prince." The director is shown as he leaves the stage to enthusiastic applause at the close of the concert.

The girls gym classes presented an assembly on which this exhibit of pyramid building was given. The girls also did many difficult tumbling feats.

This year's Brotherhood Assembly consisted of an excellent film and an eloquent address by Dr. Thomas Toler, pastor of the Wyatt Park Christian Church.

Jack Stuber presented Coach Iba a gift in appreciation of his good coaching on the basketball lettermen's assembly.

The assembly was highlighted by the trophy, third from the left, which the team received for placing second in the state tournament.
Student Body

Central High! The personality of our school is determined by the people who attend it. Some are outstanding in athletics, some in scholarship, school politics, or music. Others are not leaders, but followers. Without any one of them, Central would not have achieved the position in St. Joseph that it has during the past years.
In this book, Central students have been pictured in class, on the athletic field, and in club meetings. This last section of the Wokitan is devoted to the Centralites as individuals. From senior to freshman, they appear in a place of honor.
Shirley Dale turns out to be Jack Stuber's favorite teacher in his life as portrayed on a pep assembly.

The Seniors are proud of the four National Merit finalists, Bill Utz, Marilyn Zurow, John Kost, and Anita Jackson.

Come now, boys, all of you can't pile into one car, or can you? Anyway, you surely are going to try.

Anita Jackson sings for the Football Queen Coronation.

"Senior Scrub Day" turned into quite a thing when Seniors came in the "scrubbliest" things they found.

Ronnie Nordstrom gets measured for his cap and gown while the other boys patiently wait their turn.
The Class of 1958

Graduation—the climax of four busy years. And for the seniors of Central it means the end of infinite activities, class hours and library sessions. Friendships will be sundered, never to be renewed. As they look back over their high school life, the class of '58 will remember many things—their first registration in September of 1954 and their gradual adaptation to high school life, the all-school dances, election campaigns, the football games, and pep rallies, and the singing of Auld Lang Syne on that final assembly before graduation.

This past year has been an active one for the 275 seniors. They put on one of the most successful variety shows ever presented at Central, using the theme of "Showboat." They were guests this year and hosts during their junior year of the colorful Junior-Senior Prom.

During their junior year, they financed the prom by taking charge of Football Homecoming and selling Color Day items. During their sophomore year, the class literally slaved over a "hot stove" to help the school, when they held a cake and candy sale as a money-raising project. The results of this project were new trash barrels for the campus and a start toward their senior gift—a sound system for the Auditorium.

Many members gave freely of their extra time as well, taking part in drama, art, music, athletics, R. O. T. C., and student government. Many have taken honors through scholastic ability. All have worked to make the four years at Central memorable.

Thus, time has passed swiftly, and the end is at hand. The teen years are almost over and maturity is fast approaching. With four successful and busy years behind them, the class must now look to the future and "their place in tomorrow."

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS
Roger Anderson, President; Paul Chapman, Treasurer;
Sue Swisher, Secretary; Tod Berger, Vice-President.

The Class of 1959

The Junior-Senior Prom is a highlight of every student's life. Each year, the junior class takes complete charge of the prom, acquiring the band, planning a theme, decorating, and addressing invitations to every junior and senior at Central. This year's junior class was no exception and planned a dance which was greatly enjoyed.

The class of '59, under the sponsorship of Miss Marguerite Jones and Mr. Don Francis, earned the money to finance the prom by running the concessions at the basketball games.

A year of fun and hard work has passed quickly, and the junior class has played a prominent role in its passing. A notable example of this is the fact that both the football and basketball queens for this year have come from the class of '59.

Three years of active participation now lie behind the junior class: assemblies, Hi-Y and Y-Teen events, accomplishments in the field of sports, art, music, and science. Members of the class have already received their ranking and will strive to raise or maintain their grade level during their remaining two semesters as Centralites.

And now, a sad "adieu" must be said to U.S. History and junior English classes, but the senior year awaits them to be enjoyed to its fullest. New subjects must be mastered and new activities added to the already full list. As wonderful as this year has been, the next one will truly be "their" year, as leaders of the school, to uphold the spirit and traditions of Central High School.

Miss Bringman, Becky Reick, Judy Carter, and Marilyn McCoun help decorate Central's Christmas tree.

Manager Shirley Dale and Bill Alson observe Paul Chapman deliver his campaign speech.

While Tod Berger accepts his nomination for Vice-President, Nancy Butchart, Manager Mary Helen Goff, Jerry Myers, Bob Berger, and Dwight Pope observe.

Rosalie Levy and Barbara Linneweh take time out to cram for their next class.

Counselor Mrs. Jane Pertain assists Connie Hamm in making out her next year's schedule.
The Class of 1960

There's no turning back now! Two years are gone for the sophomore class; two years, filled with new impressions and adjustments to high school life, during which the class has already begun to make active contributions to Central.

During their past two years, the class of '60 have made themselves an integral part of the school, having an active representation in the Student Council, Glee Club, Pep Squad, and the Public Service Board. Sophomores also appeared prominently in the all-school play, the talent revue, and on assemblies.

Sports have occupied an important place in their years, as boys participated through the reserve football and basketball teams, as well as in track and baseball. Several G. A. A. championships were captured by the sophomores and a few girls even received letters.

Thus, half of their high school life is gone already. Over forever are the days of world history notebooks, bug and leaf hunting for biology class, and worrying over plane geometry proofs. But there are still two more years to be filled with exciting events, new classes, and new experiences as they make the transition to the ranks of upperclassmen. Many will be entering new organizations, such as Forum Club or Science Club. For others, being a junior will mean participation in the Concert Choir or the assumption of an officer's rank in R. O. T. C.

New challenges and new events await them as they pass the midpoint of their high school careers. Considering their fine record of past achievements, the class of '60 will continue to grow in learning, service, and leadership gaining much from Central and giving much in return.

"Keep our campus clean!" This could be the motto of the freshman class. Each year it is the duty of the "lowly frosh" to see that the school grounds remain neat and well kept. However, that is all behind this year's freshmen now.

During the past year, the class of '61 has grown accustomed to a whole new way of life. They have learned to participate in activities, make decisions, and do homework in doses such as they never have done before.

Sponsored by Miss Nancy Adle and Mr. Roger Fisher, the freshman class has been active in student council, Hi-Y and Y-Teens, sports, and R. O. T. C. Owing to an increase in its size, the Pep Squad held twenty freshman girls this year. Many hours were also spent in study, as unfamiliar subjects such as Latin, Civics, and Algebra suddenly became important.

On the athletic side, eighty-five freshman boys participated in football and track and twenty-five in basketball. Because of the scarcity of gym space, freshman basketball players practiced at various grade schools and also participated in the Saturday morning City League. Many girls also got started in sports after being guests at the annual G. A. A. tea.

One year has passed, and three yet remain to be lived and enjoyed. All too soon the future will become the past, and this class too will leave Central's halls.

The Class
Talking over their morning's accomplishments at lunch are a group of Freshman girls.

Hit with spring fever, Carol Butler stares out of the study hall window.

Taking advantage of warm weather during their lunch period Jeanette Hayward, Cookie Linneweh, Florie Dunn, Gail Turner, and Kathy Barnard study for their afternoon classes in the campus lawn.

A group of 6th period girls from Gym class participate in a favorite sport—softball.

One, two, three—Oh! Push ups performed by future track stars.

Helping in a science demonstration, Barbara Butler does a fine job as the lecturer approvingly looks on.
The volleyball game between the boys' and girls' gym classes was a lively game sparked by Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Eberle, Mr. Day, and Mr. Stegman. The boys won, but, of course, a man, Mr. Gibson, was referee.

Mr. Gibbins, former principal, was honored by the planting of a tree in his name on the south side of Central near the parking lot.

Wally Spotts bought a ticket for the last game of the regional basketball tournament from Bob Berger and Ron Kenland.

Students were encouraged by this lunchroom sign to put away their milk bottles. Centralites drink 1100 bottles of milk a day in warm weather so that putting away the bottles is necessary.

The Question Box in the office was the place where students might deposit questions about the school. These were answered by the Student Council.
