Senior Annual 1905 L.C.R.
Here's to the class of nineteen-five,
Her glory and fame will e'er survive:
Let those who follow preserve her name
And ever strive to surpass her fame.
She gradually approaches the ranks of the past.
But her fair example will ever last.

INTRODUCTION

In submitting to the public approval (for there is no place for criticism) this work of art, the class of 1905 feel greatly satisfied with the result of their efforts and rest fully assured that this publication is in every way the most complete and the best one of its kind ever gotten out by the pupils of the St. Joseph High School, and we are certain that our readers cannot help but share with us this exalted opinion of ourselves and of our book, they having been transported as if by magic to the top of a wave of literary genius only to be plunged into a sparkling sea of wit and humor, so with the same intense interest and fascination in the well written articles to be carried exultantly to the end of this masterpiece of like productions of the St. Joseph High School.

To our readers we wish also to state that for the first time in the history of the school, a Senior class has published a "class annual" dealing not only with the graduating class, but with the progress of the work in the school, including things of interest pertaining to the lower classes, especial attention being given to our friends the Freshmen. And here also may we offer a word of apology, for we have published very accurately all material contributed by lower classmates, and therefore we ask, with all good grace, that any faults which may be found in such work shall be laid at the doors of the contributors.

But our thoughts cannot remain long away from the merits of our work, and again we feel constrained to return to this topic and offer our condolences to the class of 1906, for imagine their chagrin when they realize that they never can equal or even hope to compare with this meritorious book of ours.

But, perhaps, we dwell too long on our merits, and though it is our belief that one cannot get too much of a good thing, yet we are fearful lest this grow monotonous, and so confidently and cheerfully we recommend the remaining portions of our efforts to you and, with the plaudits of the thousands ringing in our ears, we beg to remain,

Sincerely yours,

THE STAFF.

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

Even in our Freshman year we made great promise in athletics, and this year we fulfilled that promise by taking the BASKET BALL CHAMPIONSHIP. That was a day of great rejoicing for the Sophomores, for if we can win a championship in our Sophomore year what will we not be able to do in future years? I must not fail to mention that we had a very large showing on the foot ball team. We are looking forward with great eagerness to the spring athletics, when we know the Sophomores will have many and very good causes of being proud of its athletes.

We have been favored with only one class meeting, and a very short one at that, since we have been in High School, but for that very reason we will appreciate them much more when we, next year, as Juniors, will have them. We have an able president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer in Mr. Jordan, who fills his many offices with great efficiency.

APHRA KESSLER.
First Voice: “Is this the gas office?”
Second Voice: “Well, in a way, yes; it is a meeting of the Junior executive committee.”

Studying English

“Two negatives make an affirmative,”
The lover said to the maid he wooed.
“Now what would you say were asked to give
This hand to me?” “No, no,” she cooed.

A visitor surprised one of our professors who was saying to his baby, “On-ny, no-ny, e mussy tick his little footsy too-tties.” At this moment he saw his visitor and blushing deeply he muttered: “No, no, you must not expose your pedal extremities by extending them beyond the protecting covering of the blanket or you will lay yourself open to catarrhal affection.”

There once was a giddy young beau
Who thought he a mustache could greau,
He then asked a belle
If she thought it was well,
And she promptly answered him “neau.”

Her lips were like the leaves, he said,
By autumn’s crimson tinted.
Some people autumn leaves preserve
By pressing them, she hinted.
The meaning of this gentle hint
The lover did discern,
And so he clasped her round the neck
And glued his lips to her’n.

“Kind sir, your daughter I would wed.”
“Go to, go to,” the father said,
And ’twas no sooner said than done,
For they went two and came back one.

He strove to clip, with stealthy hand,
One golden ringlet from her head.
“Ah, don’t,” then with a smile so bland,
“They are my sister Jane’s,” she said.

Mr. Fisher: “Miss ——, you have just barely passed.”
Miss ——: “Oh, I’m so glad, for I do so love a tight squeeze.”

TIME WILL TELL
As Freshmen the class of 1906 was an organized body, but in the Sophomore year they did nothing as a class. Mind, I did not say they did nothing, for, of course, being the class of '06, they did many remarkable things, but I said they did nothing as a class.

They brought themselves into prominence early in their Junior year by their representation on the foot ball team, representation valuable not only in numbers but in ability. For the Juniors had by far the greatest number on the field and some of the very best men. They had almost enough men to form a foot ball squad of their own.

Then they were known for their parties. The first was a Hallow'e'en party, to which the Seniors were invited, because the Juniors, quite unintentionally, had made preparations and engaged the gymnasium for their affair before the Seniors had scarcely thought of it. This was such a success that another one was given at Christmas for Juniors alone. Mr. Whiteford, our superintendent, and a larger number of the faculty than previously, attended, doubtless because they had heard how charmingly the Juniors entertained their guests.

Now in basket ball the Juniors are excellent. Even though they did not win inter-class championship, their classmates think none the less of their ability. Circumstances alter cases, you know, and

"the greater throw
May turn by fortune from the weaker hand."

As to track athletics, it is almost too early to predict anything very definite, but it would be very unlike the Juniors to be inferior in this when they are superior in every other way.

And you must not think they are inferior in scholarship, for indeed they are not. Just ask the Juniors' teachers and they'll tell you of the attainments of the Juniors, the class of 1906.

MARGIE R. CRAWFORD.
DESSERT

Here's to a girl of high school lore
When you take one kiss you'll want one more,
But kissing her thrice is not allowed
For two's a company, three's a crowd.

Here's to the boy we all admire
Who aims very high, but still goes higher,
The youth we respect and like the best
Has been put to trial,
And has stood the test.

QUESTION
Why does Fitz Green have big feet?
Why is Mitch so tall?
Why does Boder love the girls?
Why is Pin so small?
Why does Coley appear so meek?
We've missed the reason why
A boy beloved by all the girls
Should think himself so shy.

A little bird sat on a telegraph wire
And said to his mates gathered there,
When wireless telegraph comes into use,
We'll all have to sit on the air.

 Warren had a pony,
    He loved it, yes 'tis true,
He rode this pony always,
    A fact he came to rue.

    It followed him to latin class,
    Which was against the rule,
And there it from his pocket dropped,
    Then Warren left the school.

He took the fractious pony home,
    Its stable was a trunk;
Ah, when the finals come around,
    He won a glorious flunk.
OUR FRESHMEN YEAR

It was four long years ago when we, the present Senior class, entered the High School. By the higher classes we seemed to be considered a very trifling addition to the school, but not so by the Freshmen. We fully realized what an unusual class we were and endeavored with all our might to convince them of this. But we soon saw that deeds and not words would accomplish our purpose, so we settled down to our lessons with remarkable energy. How we used to study and worry over our lessons and how very, very far off the Senior year seemed in those Freshmen days! We never disgraced ourselves in the eyes of the higher classes by doing the things that most beginning classes do, such as entering the wrong recitation room, or attempting to play games in the halls. There was one thing, however, that, like all other incoming classes, we did enjoy, and that was going down the fire escape. Although they would not admit it, the Juniors and Seniors really enjoyed the fire drills, too. In the fall the whole '05 class organized together. Everyone looked forward to our class meetings, but they were few and far between, for, as Freshmen, we had little business except the election of officers and choice of class color and a yell. Indeed one member of the class, who probably had a Senior sister or brother, proposed electing a class beauty. We showed unusual talent as debaters and held several debates in the History and English classes, the annual Aristides Themistocles being one of the best.

The time soon passed and we were no longer the lowest class, for the new Freshmen entered in February, and we were proud to have some one that we could look down upon.

They seemed ridiculously small and foolish to such learned people as we were, and we felt certain that we had never been as small as they. We soon reorganized and our A's were allowed to go in with the 04's, but our B's were compelled to organize with this new class. We got all the offices, however, Frank Weary being elected president, Jo Berry, vice-president; Ethel Boyer, secretary, and Ada Bigelow, treasurer. Our boys made a fine showing in both basket-ball and track athletics, and when our school carried off everything at the M. V. I. held here, we were proud that our class had helped win this victory. The girls formed a basket-ball team, trained by Miss Carter; and in the championship games defeated the Sophomores. That seemed a great thing to us and we were glad to be able to take some of the conceit out of '04. At the end of the year several of our members worked hard, reviewing for the History medal examination, and Joe Roberts succeeded in winning the prize. So, with prophecies for the future which we find we have more than fulfilled, we closed our first year in the Saint Joseph High School.
FRESHMAN'S DESCENT OF THE FIRE ESCAPE
OUR SOPHOMORE YEAR

ON September 10, 1902, an army of cheerful boys and girls came upon High School hill and enrolled as Sophomores. How dignified we felt and how wise we looked. No more should we indulge in the antics practiced by the Freshmen, no more should we at intermission slide down the fire escape. But we must sit in the gallery of the auditorium and look down upon the grave Seniors and profit by their good examples.

Our Sophomore year was not very eventful. We studied faithfully our Caesar and Algebra to be the better prepared for the duties before us, for we realized the fact that if we wished to be very, very wise Seniors it was necessary first to have a good start; in order to have a strong house of learning it is imperative to have a firm foundation.

At this early age we excelled in athletics. The Sophomore girls' basket ball team won the championship and the boys' team beat the Seniors. We had two men on the track team, one of these being a point winner and on field day the whole class turned out to cheer on our boys. Our snappy yell:

HURRAH! HURRAH!! HURRIVE!!!
RAC — A — CHIC — A — BOOM, 1905

made the air echo and echo again. Our color, old rose, was exhibited to such an extent that from the field the grand stand looked like the western sky when the sun is setting.

By the success of our Freshmen year we were confident that we could excel so we entered upon our Sophomore year with the determination to make a splendid record. We proved to be a very business like class and the principal was always ready to give us a class meeting on account of this virtue.

In our studies we passed far beyond the highest expectations. The praises of the faculty were heard on all sides, but this did not make us conceited as it would have done many other classes. Ah, no, instead of lessening our desire to work it awoke all our ambitions and we departed from school in June with resolves that when we came back as Juniors we would gain the reputation of being the most intelligent class on record.
TYPICAL "CANDY"

CANDY

When you see a youth with a vacant stare,
Bloomer pants and glossy hair,
A skull cap perched on the top of his head,
The very latest, so he said;
A pipe compressed between his teeth,
Two yards of cravat tied underneath.
The ladies think him a perfect dear;
Boys speak of him with a sneer.
What do they call this promising lad?
Only a candy, isn't it sad?
OUR JUNIOR YEAR

We had gotten half way along our High School course, we had passed through all the martyrdom of the Freshman stage, successfully gotten over our premature state of self-satisfaction as Sophomores and were fairly launched on the third year of High School; we might now be justly proud of attaining such eminence, we were full fledged Juniors. Hardly had we been in school a month before the other classes and classmen knew from our class spirit and enthusiasm that there were to be great things done by us and they were not disappointed. Before the holidays the executive committee planned an evening party in the gym; it is needless to say that the affair was a complete success, and that was only the beginning of several such enjoyable evenings.

Soon after the original plan of giving a play was offered and accepted with enthusiasm; for four long weeks we sorrowfully neglected our studies and home duties. Many a day we entered our class rooms quaking because of unlearned lessons, and many a time we silently suffered the wrath of our teachers to come upon our heads, but what did we care? Were we not to make ourselves a shining light in the High School’s History? Were we not to present the “Merchant of Venice” to a delighted and admiring world? Will any of us ever forget that memorable night, January fifteenth, nineteen four? The success of the play more than repaid our long striving efforts, and in days to come our fame as actors shall spread abroad, let it not be forgotten that we had our first training and gained our first triumphs while members of the Junior class, the first Junior class that ever attempted to put on a play. Thus ended the first half of our Junior year.

In the spring a large number of the Junior boys went in for training and we had a good representation on the track team; each day the boys turned out, worked and strived for the glory and renown of their class. About this time the class pin arrived. Everyone pronounced it the most artistic as well as the most distinctly original of all the pins which the previous classes had had.

At this time our class meetings from start to finish were full of interest, for we were planning the greatest event of our year, the Junior reception given in honor of the Seniors. Three weeks of the most careful preparation and strenuous efforts were required to make this brilliant affair the success that it was. The afternoon prior to the reception found about thirty Juniors, assisted by teachers, decorating the lower study hall and huge corridors with flags, bunting and class colors, and judging from the jovial countenances of those that departed that evening, we decided that our hospitality was of the cheering sort at any rate. So ended our Junior year as begun, successfully. But we have not been content to let it drop at this, but hope in the near future to have finished our High School career, not after the manner of those that have gone before, but so that 1905 may be known and remembered as the foremost class of the St. Joseph High School.
TOASTS

Here's to the foolish, fickle flirt,
The girl who wins with her eyes,
To catch all the men she is on the alert
With laughs and giggles and sighs.
She always has a youth on the string
Leading him round by the heart;
At last to the winds his affections she'll fling
After he's played his part.

Here's to the girl of modest grace,
A winning way and charming face,
Not the lass with the giddy smile
Nor one who talks and gossips the while.
Of all the girls we've chanced to see,
We'll drink to the maid of modesty.

OUR GREATEST WINNER—BY VOTE.
Concerning Different Kinds of People
JO B. BERRY

And now we come to speak of one of the most prominent, yet one of the youngest members of our class. Jo won her first friend in Mission Creek, Nebraska, December 27, 1887. She soon found that her brilliant mind was too great "to waste its sweetness on the desert air," therefore she moved to this metropolis, where she foresaw that she would be appointed on the staff of the renowned "Senior Annual" of 1905. She, with the other members of the staff, has assisted so materially in getting out this book and have used their minds to such advantage in getting their Latin at staff meetings. Nevertheless Jo is a prime favorite among us, and could 1905 be blest with a few more girls of her sunny disposition it would undoubtedly be far more progressive.

ETHEL BOYER

This charming black haired maid was born in Boise City September 25, 1887. She says that she flirts fiercely, but this is usually the case with most good looking girls. She has been in love many times, but confesses that she possesses a fickle nature. She is not engaged, but her prospects are still prospecting. She says that her strongest characteristic is a desire to have her own way, and from her winning manner we are sure that she always gets it; anyone would be foolish to deny her a little thing like that, because we are sure that her consideration for others makes her demands very small. Altogether, we may say that Ethel is one of our most charming girls.

FRANK ARMSTRONG BODER

"Bode" first began to jump and kick in Anthony, Kansas, in 1887, and to the glory of the High School and himself has continued to do so up to the present time. Member of Kilk's Union and an honorary member of the Woman Hater's Club; unfortunately he fell out of the bachelors' ranks and is now, according to class vote, the greatest winner in the school. Frank has won more medals in his career as an athlete than he can count, though, unlike some others we have known, he is very modest about it. "Bode's" strongest point is grinning. Unlike some members of our class he has never enjoyed the sensations of puppy love. Holds several records, both in M. V. I. A. A. and in field day and is acknowledged one of the best full backs ever produced by a high school in this vicinity.

INA BEARD

As this fair damsel's statistics were so very brief, we are unable to tell a very great deal concerning her past life and, as we are not fortune tellers, we are unable to predict her future. She does not say where she was born, so we cannot enlighten anyone as to the time or place. She thinks that the person in the school who has the most unadulterated nerve is the one who dared to be so rude as to ask her those "sassy" statistic questions. This is one on the Editor. The reason she would not express her opinion concerning the characteristics of the different members of the class was that she didn't think they had any of the characteristics mentioned. Such an unnatural class.
MANUELLA L. BRACH
That at least one member of such an illustrious class as that of 1905, did not have royal blood in her veins would be absurd. Ella saves us from such an embarrassing position, for she can trace her ancestry through a line of barons and baronesses too numerous to mention. She herself says that she loves to stroll on "Lover's Promenade," so we judge that she has experienced the pleasures many times; and, in the case of one so attractive as Ella, we are not surprised. She won a medal early in her course and has since acquired a choice collection of detention cards, that is to say, that so bright is this young lady that she is compelled daily to comply with requests from the principal asking her to remain with him after school to help him over a hard piece of work. Her fame as a butter-scotch maker has spread thru the school.

ARTHUR A. BREWER
Far away in the wilds of Kansas, southwest of our own fair town, a Brewer, Jr., put forth his first cry. Did he cry? We do not see how such a youth of dignity could cry, even when a little child. During his high school course he has been one of the prominent members of our class and is especially noted in his different class rooms for his excellent recitations. Arthur has also had a great deal of experience as an actor, having taken one of the leading parts in "The Merchant of Venice," a comedy production given by our class in the Junior year. He says that his engagement has not been announced, but he has prospects of a breach of promise suit. This is the first we have heard of it. We hope she will win the case, for we are sure it would be a suit-a-ble one.

ETHEL MAY BURNETTE
A black haired damsel was born in Saint Joseph, June 23, 1886. At least, if she had hair, it must have been black, because it has been of this very decided shade ever since we can remember. She was christened Ethel Mae, a very pretty name. It is against her (principal) to dance, but she occasionally goes to the theatre. Her favorite song is the "Holy City." She thinks card playing is too much like gambling, but is very fond of ping-pong. Ethel says she can flirt; now, isn't that funny? She is very fond of "Adam's ale" and imbibes very frequently. During her high school course Ethel has won many friends and has kept all of them.

EDNA MYRTLE BROKAW
Edna Myrtle began to blush in Chicago, Ill., on the twenty-eighth day of July, 1886. She must have been a gypsy before she attended Saint Joseph High School, judging from the number of places that she has spent her eventful life. She is known by the nicknames of "Baby Girl," "Ed" and "Eddie." She says that the only spoon she ever won was a silver spoon for not talking. She says that she attends the Crystal matinees at the latest price of five cents a performance. Judging from her record in high school she will make things "hum" after leaving it.
AGNES M. CANNON

This mundane sphere was brightened some eighteen years ago by a most optimistic young baby who, in the course of time, came to be called Agnes. She showed an extraordinary thirst for knowledge, and from the first, as her family name implies, her school life was a "booming" success. Places great confidence in the class of '05 and has but one fault to find with them—namely, their lack of beauty—wherefore we judge that either Miss Cannon's eyesight is bad or that perhaps she has not looked twice. After graduation "Aggie" intends to travel, presumably in search for her ideal man, in which mad chase may she have the best of success.

DANIEL D. CARPENTER

Our class president, not unlike other presidents, has, since his birth, 1885, led a most "strenuous" life. Medicine Lodge, Kan., has the honor of being the birthplace of this illustrious gentleman, but owing to the remarkable common sense for which he is noted, Dee entered the class of '05 and has distinguished himself in many ways. So learned is he that he thinks the marking system should be considerably raised. Has taken no small part in athletics, expecting to win the mile at the M. V. I. Is a great lover of the opera, having himself a beautiful (?) tenor voice. His favorite exercise is resting, but the amusement in which he takes the greatest delight is to escort from six to ten girls to a Senior party at fifteen cents per.

MARION C. COPELAND

This young miss thinks football is just fine because it gives the boys a chance to make heroes of themselves, so ye heroes of the gridiron here is your chance. Marion has ten times traversed the road between this place and California, but she says that her father is a railroad employe and perhaps this is the reason. Has a beautiful contralto voice, which is greatly appreciated in the Senior chorus. Intends to enter the University of California next year, and therefore during her present high school course does not desire to cause any male hearts to palpitate. Claims Sir Walter Scott and Gen. Clinton as distinguished relatives. Is presuming enough to state that she has no faults, yet in contradiction to this statement says that her favorite drink is "something with a cherry in it."

EVA DUNBAR COOK

Commonly known as "Cookie," was born in Clinton County near Hemple, Mo., October 18, 1887. Eva is noted for her meekness and for being a good student. Her favorite song is "My Own United States." Eva is very popular in her little crowd and is well liked by every one who knows her. She says she would rather go horse back riding than do anything else, and who can blame her? Eva desires to become a Latin teacher and to instruct this branch in our own high school. We certainly wish her success. She doesn't like the "summer girl." Mayhap some such charmer has crossed her path.
LUCY EDITH CORNELL

"Reddy," called so because she is always ready for anything, has one of the "brightest" heads of our class, being one of the wittiest yet one of the most sensible members of 1905. Born somewhere on the banks of the "Big Muddy" in 1885, she spent the happiest sixteen years of her life looking forward to the pleasures of a high school career; since 1901, however, her ideas have changed considerably. She claims J. J. Jeffries as her "favorite sport." Is very fond of dancing and aspires to be a prima donna in the "Blue Ribbons." Thinks 1905 is all right, but admits that the easiest people to bluff in the whole school are the scholars. Was awarded the "blue ribbon" for the best answers to the statistics questions propounded by the staff of this book.

DELLA E. ELLIS

This young lady acquired that "tired feeling" June 16, 1887, and has ever since been a slave to it, so she claims. Can trace her ancestry to W. F. Ellis; probably she is only "Teasing" us, for she says that is her favorite pastime. Is remarkably fond of walking, having once received a "tie pass" to San Francisco; doubtless at that time she was trying to live a "strenuous" life, befitting the president of the United States, for it is to this office that she aspires. Has been engaged for six months, though the fortunate fellow is ignorant of it. In her high school course Della said that she most enjoyed (?) Prof. Miller's jokes. She is thru Latin now, and there is no need, so far as we can see, for her to make this statement.

ALICE CATHERINE CROWLEY

This fair relative of J. Pierpont Morgan was born in Hannibal, Mo., sixteen years ago, and since that time has been wrestling courageously with geometry. Her love sensations are truly ethereal. Is one of the most patriotic members of our class, being one of those people that a person loves to associate with and one whom a class can truly appreciate. Intends to enter some eastern school in the fall. Is very fond of classical music and is an ardent lover of dancing. Alice also takes a great interest in athletics, a spirit which, if cultivated by more girls of the school, would help us on to greater prominence.

MYRTLE E. ESTES

Myrtle, one of the meekest members in the class, yet the one best liked both by teachers and friends; first brightened this old world February 27, 1887, in St. Joseph. She looks back on her high school course as a complete success, and we are not a bit surprised, so conscientiously has she followed her rule: "Love your teachers as yourselves." Most excellent advice to the students entering upon their high school career. Will probably attend some business college in or near the city upon her graduation. Is a lover of good music and poetry, having no small amount of talent as a singer. Has never been in love and does not expect to experience its ethereal joy in the near future. Her highest aim in life is to be a good and noble woman.
FIDELIA F. FETHERSTONHAUGH

On the second of September, 1889, the home of C. J. Featherstonhaugh was considerably brightened by the arrival of Fidelia Frances. Since then Miss Fetherstonhaugh has grown up and has some very decided opinions of things. She says she is French and German and claims to be related to Noah. She is athletically inclined, having served as sub on the '03 basket ball team, and thinks foot ball is the most attractive. She loves a good time, is not at present engaged and admires brunettes, so here is a chance for enterprising Seniors of that type who are inclined to matrimony. Her motto, "Treat the teachers as you would have the teachers treat you," is certainly a good one, even though we cannot give it our endorsement.

GEORGE GILPIN

We can but envy one who can throw off all thought of worldly affairs and apply himself to his studies as diligently as does George, but then he says that he has no desire to be in love, and perhaps this partially explains it. Was born in the village of New York in 1887, but thinking life in a metropolis more interesting, came here. Unlike the average Senior, he has studied hardest in his last year, still he says that he spends most of his time and money at the theatres. Can trace his ancestry to William the Conqueror and is justly proud of his descent. Has traveled extensively, having gone alone on one occasion to Elwood. Claims that he is free from all bad habits except study, for which we must shed a silent tear; alas, too many good men have been ruined by it.

FITZHUGH GREEN

Fitz Green was born on August 16, 1888, in St. Joseph. The fact that he takes such an active part in all athletics and sports seems to contradict his statement that his only objection to dancing is that it is too hard work, and that his favorite occupation is sleeping. He says that he most enjoys attending the Presbyterian church because they "stay sitting down all the time." He has been in love, but refuses to describe the sensations. Others do not have a better opinion of him than he himself has. For, next to himself, he would rather be a "fellow like myself." Intends in after life to practice medicine or to become a "carter" for some St. Joseph establishment. If we only had another "boyer" two like him, 1905 would be a better class.

JOE E. GLENN

Lois was born at Whitesboro, Texas. This much is certain, but at just what time we are left to conjecture. We are also left in the dark as to what she did during her early life. We know that she came to St. Joseph and at present occupies an enviable position in St. Joseph musical circles. To her we are greatly indebted for her excellent work done in the Glee Club and also for her selections at the class parties. Is an ardent lover of athletics, especially foot ball. Her favorite song is "Just Make Yourself at Home," and judging from her cheery and hospitable nature, we conclude that all her visitors do have that home-like feeling. Some day we expect with great pride to have the pleasure of listening to the great singer who belonged to the class of 1905.
FANNIE HANSON
Fannie was originally a member of the ’04 class, but on finishing the first half of her Senior year with that class she stopped school. During the latter semester of that year and the first semester of this year she taught in the grammar schools, but deciding to graduate she re-entered school in February and will receive her diploma with the best of all. She is well known to all of us for her dignified manner and her quiet ways. She intends to become a school teacher and we are very sure that she will be a success in that line, as some of us can testify from personal knowledge.

GERALDINE MARGARET HOLDEN
Have you ever heard “Bridget” sing “Under the Anheuser-Busch”? If not, you have a rich treat in store for you. And yet this charming young lady says she is not engaged, but thinks she would stand a good chance if some of the Senior fellows would overcome their bashfulness. Alas, we are afraid the latter is hopeless, and can only extend our sympathies to both parties. Geraldine was born in 1885 and since that happy time has traveled extensively in all parts of the city. Is very fond of the theatre, but like a loyal Senior looks back to the presentation of the “Merchant of Venice Up-to-Date” by the class of ’05 as the happiest event in her high school life. Loves to dance and, like all Seniors, regrets that a few more entertainments of such delightful nature are not allowed the highest class in the school.

MARJORIE HIGBIE
On the fifteenth day of December, 1886, in this great city, was born one of the most studious girls of our class. Marjorie claims that she has all the traits of a typical Senior, but we must disagree with her, for she says that she never dances nor has she ever been in love and moreover does not desire to learn the intricacies of either. Marjorie has a passionate fondness for bananas and says that eating is her most prominent characteristic. Has written several short stories for eastern publishers and in other ways shown her genius. Strange to say, has never tried to bluff a teacher and is perfectly composed when reciting, for she claims that no teacher can rattle her.

OTA MAE HUNT
Ota Mae, commonly known as “Dutch,” was born in Joe town on November 16, 1886. She has English and Irish blood in her veins; why, then, is she nicknamed “Dutch”? Ask her and she will tell you. During two years of her high school life she has been an enthusiastic member of the orchestra. Her favorite game is hearts and her favorite drink is cold water. Wouldn’t cold water somewhat dampen a warm heart? She has been in love many times, but cannot describe the sensation. How could she? At any rate we hope that she may (Mae) finally hunt (Hunt) the right man. Ella Brach is her most intimate friend.
ELIZABETH A. JAMESON

When and where this young lady was born is not very well known to us, but we judge from what her friends have said that the time is unknown and the place Saint Joseph. Like most girls she is very fond of athletic sports and particularly loves to fence. Her favorite pastime is to lounge in the hammock and read a love story. Her favorite amusement is dancing and her favorite dance is the five step. Her favorite song is "Way Down in My Heart I Got a Feeling for You." She says that she attends the theatre as often as she gets a bid. She considers '05's most prominent characteristic its boys. She has never given the "summer girl" a thought. Perhaps she is jealous of her.

MARY JONES

Mary was born in Wales, England, and is a descendant of that famous sea fighter, John Paul Jones. Cannot sing or play, but is one of the brightest girls in the class. She intends to travel in Europe soon after graduation and then to attend Wellesley, preparatory to becoming a school teacher. She has never been in love and expects to become an old maid. She has rare good taste, for she says that next to herself she would rather be either Miss Raines or Mrs. Sherman. Greatest weakness is inability to hold her tongue; strongest characteristic, desire to study. Decidedly prefers to remain single because she wishes "to do as I please."

CHARLES FREDERIC JONES

First looked upon this cruel world in Elwood about the year 1887 and passed an uneventful life there until one morning he crossed the "Big Muddy" to enter our school, so plainly seen from his domicile, and since that time has shared the phenomenal success and praise of 1905. Admits that he does not warble, thus showing a frankness lacking in some of the fake tenors (and counterfeit fivers) of our class. Is not of an athletic turn of mind, but prefers to devote his time to study and checkers. Has been remarkably well behaved, having been "sent down" only once in his high school career. Will enter the state normal school next year preparatory to living a bachelor's life in true bliss.

BERTHA KINZEL

Bertha's heavenly voice first pealed forth on April 3, 1888, in Atchison, Kansas. Her highest ambition is to become a prima donna and we are sure she will succeed. She is one of our most enthusiastic Seniors over all forms of athletics, especially basketball and foot ball. In the interest of the latter she canvassed the school before the Kansas City game. She was especially successful among the boys, naturally, for what boy, no matter how shy, could refuse such a girl as Bertha. According to herself she is the homeliest girl in the class, but we fail to agree with her for, according to the ideas of the class, she is one of the most beautiful.
PERCIVAL H. KRAMME

Percy, commonly known as "Mic" and "Moses," was born on July 13, 1887, in the city of Saint Joseph. He doesn't believe in card playing as it opposes his (principal). His favorite amusement is listening to Prof. Miller's and Prof. Fisher's jokes. Percy is a very funny boy, having never met the summer girl. He says that his chief reason for not getting married will be that he is afraid no one will have him. Cheer up, old man! He thinks that '05's most prominent characteristic is its pretty girls and its worst characteristic is its small number of graduates, but he also states that quality and not quantity is what we wish.

FLORENCE austille Lucas

On July 8, 1886, Florence Lucas first opened her eyes in this great city and has lived here ever since. Florence is a good student and is especially noted for her brilliant recitations in history. She sings soprano, "just because she likes to." Next to herself she prefers to be president, but whether of the class of '05 or the United States, she does not say. Admits that she has been in love, but does not state with whom. Thinks that '05 is all O. K., especially its boys, whom she says are unusually nice. Florence desires to become a great authoress, and we extend our best wishes for her success in that line.

DELPHINE LEONARD

Delphine was born in Saint Joseph May 19, 1886, and has resided here ever since. She is of French descent, her father having graduated from a French university and her mother from a French convent. Her family contains many distinguished Frenchmen, some warriors and others statesmen. She says that she lacks one of a woman's characteristics—flirting. We are glad that one of the girls in our class does not have this failing. She says that she doesn't "crib" and never has, another good trait. She enjoys out-of-door sports, especially horseback riding. She completed her grammar school course at the Washington school. During her high school career she has given close attention to her studies and has been well liked by all on account of her unassuming manner.

GUY E. McCoy

Allow us to introduce the financial pillar of our number—namely, the class treasurer. According to a certain shy young lady of the class we should pass over the birth and other events of minor importance with which our hero has been allied and deal with his many virtues, which she never tires of relating. Guy was a member of the staff of this book, but evidently like the other members his time was taken up with more important affairs. But Guy, nevertheless, is one of the most popular boys among us, being very prominent in athletics and also of a very literary turn of mind. Is a Populist, but never intends to run for election as president of that party. Has not as yet decided upon the institution which he will enter after graduation, but thinks probably it will be No. 2.
IRENE LAURE MARTIN

This maiden was born in St. Joseph August 13, 1888, and has spent most of her life here. She says she is extremely fond of basketball, and we know she is for she played on the celebrated '05 basketball team, and she did good work. Irene's favorite exercise is walking. One would think from her statements that Irene is a brilliant student, for she thinks that the marking system is too low and would like to have it raised. It's a pity we can't agree with her. Her highest aim is to be a stenographer, and it is the wish of the class of '05 that she will be a successful one.

EMMA CELIA MILLER

Emma Celia Miller, one of the quietest and also brightest girls of our class, was born in St. Joseph December 12, 1886, and has spent her entire life in this city. Emma is a diligent student, as all of us who have recited with her will testify. She is especially bright in mathematics, and very few problems are too difficult for her to solve. She is also noted for her keen sense of right and wrong, and has never been known to do a dishonest thing. Emma intends to become a teacher and we can safely say that she will be one of the best.

BERT JESS MYERS

Robinson, Kansas, had the honor of being the birthplace of this member of the illustrious class of nineteen-five. Although born in the sunflower state he has spent most of his life in the "show me" state. His favorite sport is track athletics. He says he sings a "bare-tone" and prefers rag time to any other class of music. He thinks that cribbing is all right and perfectly justifiable. We are glad that there is one honest boy in the class. He says that he always rises at six in the morning and retires anywhere between nine p.m. and three a.m. He says that he thinks the summer girl "good." He most admires courage in man and his highest aim in life is to get married.

FREDERICK NIEMAN

No doubt every one of you have been made happy (?) by the meals served at the intermission by this energetic member of our class. Claims that the only time he was ever engaged was in business. Says that never in his life has he been accused of taking anti-fat. Has missed one week of school during his whole course, that time being spent at home with the mumps; we suppose that he was trying to get plump. He was born in this city in 1888, and intends to make St. Joseph his home all his life; aspires to be a millionaire, and from the zeal and energy with which he is starting in, his aspirations bid fair to be realized.
HILMA C. PETERSON

"I was born in St. Joseph in 1886, and have enjoyed the pleasures of that thriving city ever since, except when, several years ago, I was persuaded to experience the glories of the West. I intend to become an author, and have been in love only once—merely to get the experience necessary to write a good love story. I am an ardent lover of tennis, and I do so love to go rowing. I once had an idea that I could fly, but that notion has long ago been abandoned. You know I am very fond of building air castles; in fact, I think that is my greatest weakness. I received a Latin medal in my Sophomore year, but, thinking I had won enough distinction for a four years' course, I have since lived on my reputation."

CARVL ASHBY POTTER

"Tub" is one of the most popular members of our famous class, as well as of the school. He was born in Cameron, Mo., October 1, 1886, but has spent most of his life, as he says, in high school. That he is enterprising and energetic is shown by his earnest work as business manager of this book, and through him the literary department has been greatly aided in getting out its part of the work. Caryl is one of the best all-around athletes in the school; in football he has for several years played a star tackle, and he is prominent in basketball, track work, and especially baseball, as we know he so efficiently held down first base for 1902 team. In literary work he is also well known, being associate editor of the school paper. All who know him agree that to meet him is to be his friend.

RUTH L. PICKELL

The village of Hamilton, Mo., was greatly aroused on August 28, 1887, by the birth of this member of the Pickell family, and certainly it had a right to be, for it is not every day that such a girl as Ruth is born. She has spent most of her life in Kansas City and St. Joseph. Her favorite exercise is skating, and, as we all know, she plays beautifully on the piano. She admits that her greatest fault is lack of confidence in herself, but she may surely consider her lot a fortunate one if this is her greatest trouble. Ruth says that she has had many enjoyable times during her high school course, but that the Junior reception was best of all. We wonder what could "Turn(her)" mind to that opinion, but some things must be left unexplained.

ROBERT A. POTTIS

Robert, tho born in Mexico, Mo., is Irish by descent and appears to be proud of it, and can trace his ancestry back to George Washington, even though it does take bloodhounds to trace it for him. First came into prominence when, amid the cheers of spectators, he ran such an excellent mile. To see Robert stretch his muscular legs is inspiring. He is bold enough to say that he has never been in love, but we are under the impression that he had his fingers crossed when he made this assertion. Is a member of the "Class Annual" staff, whom the editor wishes now to thank, for the immense amount of work they did, and to commend for their very energetic spirit; but tho Robert does not take to class-book work, he is bright and energetic in his studies.
CORNELIA ANNA RAINALTER
This popular young lady blushed for the first time on the seventh of September, 1886, in this great city of ours. She has an exceedingly (McCoy) and coquettish way about her, and so dreads to be "Guyed" that we fear she will never succeed as a settlement worker, which she says is the height of her ambition. If we took Cornelia's opinion of herself we would be led to believe that she is lazy, for she says that since the Methodist church is closest that is the one of her choice, but we know from her grades that she is one of the most energetic pupils of the class. Like all other fair young damsels, she has been in love many times and has experienced some very peculiar sensations in this line.

MARY ROSE REARDON
On December 28, 1886, a golden haired girl was born in the Reardon family, and they called her Mary. She likes to dance and is particularly fond of the waltz because it is so dreamy. Her favorite song is "When Johnny Comes Marching Home." We wonder if she sings "I've Waited, Honey, Waited Long for You," after he comes. She sings soprano, and attends the theatre very often. Her favorite actor is Louis Thomas at the Lyric. She says that she flirts fiercely. Now just take one look at her and wonder why. All good looking people, especially girls, indulge.

JOSEPH HAYWARD ROBERTS
Joe, commonly known as "Cindy," and the most popular boy in the class, was born in St. Joseph, September 4, 1887. He was president of our class during the Sophomore year. He thinks that the summer girl is a "peach," and we are sure he is right. He says that he has been in love many times. Being a general favorite with the ladies, we can see that this is true. His love sensations are thrilling and are inclined to be ethereal. If you ever hear a girl singing "Cindy, Cindy, When You Smile on Me," you may be sure she is thinking of Joe. As a climax to his high school career, he has edited this "Annual," and you may judge whether or not our praise of him is justified.

WE THINK HIM TO BE "ONE OF MANY."

ETTA MABEL SHELL
Etta must live in the negative world, judging from the "nos" and "nones" in her statistic answers. She strenuously objects to dancing, as she thinks it injurious to health and sets a bad example for those who are to follow. Finds fault with '05 on the ground that its members are not social enough, but wisely refrains from suggesting any means of betterment. She appears to be well contented with her lot, for she says she would prefer to be no one else but herself. Is in love, but admits that her "greatest social favorite" does not attend school. Hopes in after years to become a teacher, and to lead a true Christian life. If he but continues in the paths which she is now following the latter wish will surely be fulfilled.
MARTHA BELL SMITH

Of course you all know “Susan”—always ready to cheer one on with a little praise and encouragement to lighten one's troubles. Such a person is sure to be well liked by the class, of which rule Martha is no exception. Her favorite game is “hands,” so she says, but from all appearances we would judge her to be the greatest winner at “hearts.” Was born at Perrin, Mo., October 29, 1886, but has spent most of her life in this city. Is a member of the Senior Executive Committee, and has taken no small part in the preparation of the parties given by the Seniors this year. Thinks the summer girl is all right; has at present good prospects for engagement—to the lucky one we extend our hearty congratulations.

FRANK WEARY

Weary is a product of Homeston, Iowa, and has lived in several places since his birth. He says he doesn't know the meaning of the word “flirt,” but immediately afterwards he says that his favorite occupation is flirting—not very frank (Frank). His advice to those who are to follow is “Equo ne credite.” What is the reason for this? Has he ridden his to nothing? We don't believe that he uses such a thing, because he gets his Latin by telephone, and besides someone else answered his statistics. During his high school course Frank has held many offices. He was president of our class during the Sophomore year, and has been editor-in-chief of “The Forum” during the present term.

BENJAMIN BIGGS TURNER, JR.

“Dooley” Turner first appeared in St. Joseph in 1887, and has been kept busy, ever since that happy date, in avoiding the girls. Is of an extremely musical turn of mind as well as an expert fisherman, being naturally very familiar with scales of all kinds in both his pursuits. Intends to enter some business college after graduation, and will become probably the private secretary to the next Democratic president at his election, if such an event ever comes to pass. Is capable of writing very thrilling literature, as the description of his first descent of the fire-escape shows. Can trace his ancestry back to Isaac Vermeille thru a long line of military heroes.

ROLAND B. WESTOVER

“Pin” was born in St. Joseph, January 2, 1887, and has spent most of his life in the same place. “Pin,” “Sweetheart,” “Punch,” “Lizzie” and “Stover” are the nicknames applied to him, the one most popular and most generally used being the first, and, to judge from some of his pointed remarks, it is a very appropriate one. He says he has never been in love, but we do not know whether or not to believe him. “Stover” says that he goes to Kansas City very often to see athletic games. Is that all? We believe there is a Kansas City woman in the case. Roland has always been one of the most prominent boys in the class, and is also one of the best looking. His favorite occupation is soliciting money for the Foot Ball Association.
SARAH KELLOGG WHITE

One of the sweetest of Longfellow's descendants was born in this city, December 8, 1887, and could that great poet but be alive he might justly feel proud of one of the most popular members of 1905. "Sal" is in love—enough of this. Her favorite exercise is golf (she must love to gambol on the green), tho she is averse to card playing because "it is too much like prize fighting." She is a general favorite in the class because of her sunny disposition and consequent ability to cheer one up at times when such a person is indispensable. Thinks '05 is all right except her boys, but we must overlook such an exception as merely a case of lack of appreciation of our merits.

GRACE A. V. WIEHL

December 6, 1886, is the date of the arrival of this young lady among us, tho she seems to be slightly mixed in her dates, for she claims to have traveled extensively during the early fifties; probably believes in the transmigration of souls, or still more probably is having a delightful "pipe" dream, which amusement she claims is her favorite pastime. Like other lofty Seniors, she finds the marking system is entirely too strict. Has been engaged "menny" (many) times, her longest engagement being with trigonometry. Has, since her high school course began, often resorted to the use of glasses, but says that her eyesight seemed always to be poorer after using than before.

JO AMELDA NOLAN

If any member of the fair sex of our class leads a strenuous life, this young lady certainly has that distinction, rising at 4 o'clock a.m. and retiring at 4 p.m. She has our admiration as well as our sympathy. Is an ardent lover of music and her dancing is most heavenly. Considers our High School the best in the world, and only regrets that the Senior class is not allowed a few more dances by our honorable school board. Thinks football is the finest game ever played, and shows her school spirit by attending all the games, setting an example which many of the girls would do well to follow. Says the class of '05 should pride itself upon its boys, for which "we" thank her, and wish to add that "we" always did think that Jo was one of the nicest members of the class.

GRACE HORNADAY

Grace Hornaday, our late arrival, became a member of our class after the statistic questions were issued, and therefore we are unable to publish a full account of her life. However, we are very glad to welcome her as an addition to our famous class. Coming from Ottawa, Kansas, she has received her diploma from the Ottawa high school, and has also taken special courses in the Ottawa University. Feeling that her life would be incomplete without a diploma from the Saint Joseph High School, she has at last accomplished this very noble ambition.

TWO BACKWARD BOYS.
The Freshman

I

A Freshman went home to his father one day
Singing this soft refrain,
"I'm sure a high school course doesn't pay;
Father, I've flunked again."

II

The father turned him across his knee
Humming this soft refrain,
"Dear little Willie, now let us see
If you ever do it again."

SECOND ELEVEN

For second choice, the contest between Sampson and Welty is a close one. Of about the same weight, build and steadiness, we choose Welty on account of his greater adaptability, as he could also be used as a guard, tackle or fullback, if necessary.

The school has not a great aggregation of guards to choose from. Those who suggest themselves at once are: Wyatt, Buzard, Mitchell, Roy Graham, Harry Graham, Zazel, Bentley, Knight, Kahn, Reeves, Watkins. Of these, Buzard would be the first choice, combining weight, aggressiveness and fierce playing. Mitchell comes next, as he has undoubtedly the best knowledge of the position, is the shiftiest player and the best master of the fine points of position play. He can also be used to carry the ball, and is a fair kicker.

Harry Graham was the fiercest guard we have had, but his light weight keeps him off the first team. Aubrey Wyatt has the weight, but lacked the speed and aggressiveness. The same was true of Roy Graham.

Tackles: What a good lot to choose from! Potter, Brown, Priebe, Keller, Floyd, Willis, Dannevick, Kuchs, Stern, Nelson,
All High School Foot Ball Eleven—Continued

Coyle Allen—well, we must be careful. In the first place, we must remember the great development of tackle play in the last few years, in choosing our man. A tackle of 1893 could not begin to cope with a present day man unless he was a remarkable man in the position, and none of our early tackles were this. So the choice comes pretty well down to Potter, Priebe, Willis, Floyd, Nelson and Brown. Of these Potter is easily first when at his best. The only difficulty in choosing him is his unsteadiness of play, yet even on an off day, we would risk him over most of the others named. If Willis keeps on improving, he is to be the best tackle yet seen, but at present we give the second place to Priebe, who, although seen at half back his last year, was a natural tackle, and the steadiest man who ever played on a high school team.

Floyd was a remarkable player, and had he had more than his one year's experience, must have become a first team man. Henry Nelson was so shifted about in his play, starting at center, going to tackle, and finally ending at half and fullback, that we can not rank him in any of these positions. Henry Brown was a good man, but his unsteadiness of temper would keep him off from the team.

At end, we are looking for a fast runner, a low, hard tackler, a man who can run down a punt so as to nail an opponent in his tracks, who can run back a punt to the kicker, who is never boxed, and who can carry the ball when necessary. We have no hesitation in naming the two best men, who fill all of these requirements, as Percy Johnson and Ulysses Weary. And we are not forgetting the Gould brothers—Charlie and Winnie, nor Waters, Newby, Quick, Walter Casteel, Will Martin, Louis Motter, Kemper and Churchill.

The only objection that can be urged to either is their light weight, but this was more than made up for by their fierce, aggressive play. Weary was often compared to Hinkey of Yale by those who had seen both men play, and Johnson was the star of every game he ever played.

Chas. Gould and Ben Quick are our second choice, and, while of very different type from the first pair, were equally strong in their way. Both were wonderful on defensive work, and only fall behind when called upon for offensive duties and for getting down on punts, where the first choice outclasses them. Waters was almost as good in 1902, but his work in the season of 1903 was so far below the standard that he can not be considered.

At quarter, there is no hesitation. Ramey, Casteel, Abercrombie, Eckel, Quick, Smith, Weary, Roberts, Green, not one of them can be compared with Saunders for allround excellence. Quick was better on backing the line, Abercrombie had more experience in running the team, Eckel was, perhaps, less liable to lose his temper, but allowing for all the above, our opinion could not be changed. Accurate in receiving and passing the ball, a fine interferer, absolutely sure on catching punts, phenomenal on running them back, and, above all, of wonderful judgment in running the team, driving them faster than any of our quarters, and keeping his head in the tightest places, his worst enemies must agree that he is the best of the lot.

For a long time we held the balance level between George Eckel and Jim Abercrombie for second place, but finally gave it to Abercrombie on account of his longer experience, though when we think of Eckel's wonderful work in the Christian Brothers' game, we are almost inclined to reverse our decision.

Now for the halfbacks. Barnard, Edgar Brown, Tom McDonald, George Ferris, Neumarker, Triem, Worthwine, Coley Motter, Will Motter, Orr, Barnes, Wagner, Duncan, Henry Nelson—every one a formidable player to face. We must consider not only brilliant offense, but also the defensive play, in choosing. We think that all will agree that we are right in picking the two greatest sprinters and hardest fighters of their day for the two positions. McDonald easily stands first, both on offense and defense, and Barnard is a close second. He is especially valuable on account of his drop and place kicking ability, and although he did not have the same playing experience with us as some of the others named, it must be remembered that, brilliant as his play with us was, it was far below the standard he had previously set in Council Bluffs, as he was badly handicapped by water on the knee.
All High School Foot Ball Eleven—Concluded

Ferris and Worthwine are second choice. What a pair for the heavy, rough work of the game! We are not at all sure but that they could outwear their more brilliant opponents.

Every one in school now will be sure that Boder is our fullback. And even though we remember that Barnard, Ferris, Max Shackelford and Bob Morris all have fine records at the position, yet "Bode" should have it, were it not that Burr Mosman has a four years' record that even surpasses Boder's. The best punter and drop kicker we have ever had, afterward making the Yale Freshman and then the Missouri University elevens, a wonderful line plunger, we must give him the first place, even over Boder.

We could pick a third eleven that would be a good one, but it could not defeat the first two. But we are not sure but that the second team we have chosen could defeat the first.

If anyone had asked last fall who were the likely winners of the basketball championship for this year, nine answers out of ten would not have mentioned the Sophs. The Juniors realized that they had some good material, but were confident of defeating '07. The Seniors looked upon the Sophomores with a certain amount of scorn and, though usually defeated in practice games by them, '05 worried very little about not being able to defeat them. In spite of all school opinion against them, the Sophs won a hard fought victory, but not until a second series had been played.

N. J. Lomax captained the '07 team, and by many is conceded to be the best all around player in the school. He played center all season with the exception of the last game between the Juniors and Sophomores.

Tedrow, according to the female portion of the audience, was "the cutest player on the team." He seemed always to be in the right place and played a wonderful game as forward in spite of his comparatively small size.

Binswanger, though very little larger than his teammate, Tedrow, is always a favorite with the audience and plays a good game. The guards for '07 were DeClue, Barrows and Miller, the last two usually dividing the game, one playing the first half, the other the second. The comparatively small scores made against the Sophomores testifies to their merit. DeClue, the permanent guard, was invincible and played his position admirably.

The '07 team was defeated by the Juniors in the first series by a score of 21 to 17, but they in turn defeated the Seniors in the same series by the score of 20 to 18, and in the second to the tune of 16 to 14. In the last three games they defeated the Juniors, thus winning the championship. The Seniors got second place. The Sophs also added to their fame by defeating the Alumni 15 to 14, the last named team being also beaten by the Seniors 13 to 8.
SLASHES FROM A RUSTY PEN

If Mitchell would only wear a collar! how much easier he might feel.

Broaddus ('04), Newcomer and Brewer seem to be having an awful run for that one girl.

How sorry we feel for Elsa B. But DesMoines is a pretty nice place.

Ask Donald Barrow about Daisy.

Carpenter, the class-president, was made to stand in a corner. Shame on him.

Does R. Newcomer remember saying “Fellows, I can’t do that?”

Miss Raines (in auditorium, when asked to describe some pictures): “O, this is so sudden!”

Is “Pin” Westover too much to the point? Speak out sharply, please.

Allow us to call attention to Boder’s sideburns. Contributions for a shave thankfully received.

They strolled the fields together,
And their arms were interlocked.

He tried to kiss her, “Don’t,” said she,
“See how the corn is shocked.”

There is a young lady named Lynn,
To roast her is truly a sin,
But then I’m afraid

This charming young maid
Would get sore if her name wasn’t in.

Papa (poking his head through the curtains): “Are you having a pleasant conversation?”

Ethel: “Yes, we were talking about our kith and kin, weren’t we, Eva?”

Little Eva (three years old): “Yeth, Mr. Thomkins thez ‘kin I have a kith?’ and Ethel thez ‘you kin.’

A sandy beach,
The girl a peach,
The story’s old, ’tis true;
No youth in reach,
Ah, there’s the breach,
That’s why the tale is new.
I saw a lady with a fan
Beneath the amber moon,
I saw her kiss a colored man
Because she was a coon.

ROASTS

Turner Jones once decided he "Wood,"
Win the heart of a maid if he could;
The suit was in vain,
For she called him insane,
And now perhaps he'll be good.

The charming miss, Madeline McKay,
Vowed from love she'd keep safely away.
"Specker" Quentin, 'tis said,
Drove the thought from her head,
So, just for sport, she breaks hearts every day.

Said Barrow to his lady love,
"May I, please, call you 'Daisy?'"
"Oh, no," said she, cool as could be,
"That 'ain't' my name, you crazy."

A young Freshman, when asked what a miracle was, replied: "A woman who won't talk." Ah, that the Senior Executive Board might have a few miracles!

Oh, why! oh, why does the gossip say:
"That's what I heard the other day."
Where she heard it nobody knows.
Perhaps it's the fruit that her idle brain grows.

I've seen the birch bark in the wood,
A rail fence skilfully;
I've seen a board walk as it should,
And seen a sawbuck willfully.
I've seen a horsefly thru the air,
Some Freshies who weren't green,
But a better class than 1905,
I'm sure I've never seen.

A Senior—Oh, yes, his name's Guy—
Thinks much of a maid, sweet and shy,
At staff meetings they're late.
The reason? Just fate!
And besides, you've no cause to ask why.

"Bean Blossoms" have commenced to sprout on Seventh and Felix streets. This has necessitated the reorganization of the "Soda Pop Trust," which, at its first annual meeting, elected officers for the summer. Many of the pupils of the school have presented their names for membership. At one of the meetings it was decided that all girls above the Freshman Class would be admitted providing they pay the necessary dues. Babies
(Freshmen) will absolutely be refused admittance.

IN A LIGHT VEIN

In the woods, where the trees form a vista,
There sat a young maid and a Mistah.

From the distance between 'em
And the fact that we'd seen 'em,
We inferred that the Mistah had kissed her.

A Freshman girl wrote the following essay on boys: "Boys are men that have not got as big as their papas, and girls are women that will be ladies by and by. When God looked at Adam he said to himself, 'Well, I think I can do better if I try again,' and he made Eve. Boys are a trouble. They wear out everything but soap. If I had my way, the world would be girls and the rest dolls. My papa is so nice that I think he must have been a little girl when he was a little boy. Man was made, and on the seventh day he rested. Woman was then made, and he has never rested since."—Selected.

Little Willie from the mirror,
Licked all the mercury off,

Thinking, in his childish error,
It would cure the whooping cough.

II
At the funeral Willie's mother
Sadly said to Mr. Brown,

"'Twas a chilly day for Willie
When the Mercury went down."

Little Willie, in bright new sashes,
Fell in the fire and was burned to ashes.

By and by the room grew chilly,
But no one wanted to stir up Willie.

I wish I would not always

Only the letter E

Only the letter E

Only the letter E

Willie fell down the elevator;
There they found him ten days later,
And the finder said: "Gee whiz,
What a spoiled child Willie is."
Dress in Good Taste

ONE scarcely realizes what a worldly advantage is offered to the young man who is always properly dressed.

"Properly" does not mean foppishly—but it means to attire one's self neatly, cleanly, and to adhere as much as possible to the accepted code of fashion. This is comparatively easy—and inexpensive, too—providing you extend to us the privilege of clothing you. Our present array of Clothing—and Hats and Haberdashery, too—is by far the finest we have ever gathered together. We trust to deserve a goodly portion of your trade.

FINEST TRAIN IN THE WORLD

The palatially appointed train exhibited at the St. Louis World’s Fair by the Missouri Pacific Ry., which was awarded the grand prize, and a companion train, are now running in regular service between St. Joseph, Kansas City and St. Louis. This train leaves St. Joseph 7:20 a.m., arrives at Kansas City 9:35 a.m. and St. Louis at 6:00 p.m. It leaves St. Louis at 9 a.m., Kansas City 6 p.m. and reaches St. Joseph at 8:20 p.m.

The train consists of a baggage car, two day coaches, reclining chair car and dining car. The baggage car of white oak with white ceiling is a model of its kind.

The reclining chair car is of South African mahogany, carrying an attractive color scheme of two shades of green. Carpet, curtains, upholstery and transoms of jeweled glass, blend in perfect harmony. In connection with this is a smoking room of Flemish oak, with hangings of brown silk and upholstery of brown leather.

Following this is a day coach in Peruvian mahogany, a trifle less elegant, displaying a color scheme of old rose and crimson. This is duplicated by a second coach with the exception that it is of Mexican mahogany and carries out a color scheme of Gobelin blue.

The kitchen of the dining car is equipped with every appliance that the most exacting chef could desire—a fine steel range with every imaginable appointment—hot and cold water, electric fan, refrigerator and ventilating shaft. In connection with this is the china closet full of exquisite Haviland china, glassware and silver. The china shows a charming decoration of tiny morning glories in the daintiest of colorings. The dining car itself is of South African mahogany inlaid with Nile lilies. The windows are double plate glass with patent spring fastenings and are hung with olive green plush lined with silk. The transoms above, as well as those in the ceiling, are of cathedral glass jeweled with sapphires.

The car is divided midway by an arch supported by graceful pillars. In each section are six tables and covers laid for twenty-four persons; farther on is a private compartment with table laid with covers for six. Adjoining this is a handsome buffet. The carpet is of olive green velvet in quiet design, while the chairs are of dark leather, embossed with Nile lilies. Meals are served a la carte.

The entire train is vestibuled, steam heated, lighted by electricity and Pintch gas, equipped with American Westinghouse air brakes and the very best of emergency tools.

No additional charge is made for this superb service, than which there is none finer operated by any line.
